Construction of a proposed Eticam hazardous-wastewater treatment plant in Granite City could provide an immediate economic windfall of between $15 million and $20 million, according to Byron Bradd, general manager of Eticam in Fernley, Nev. Bradd said that, in addition to between 75 and 100 full-time jobs the plant would create, there would be numerous construction jobs generated building the plant.

IEPA public hearing on Eticam permit May 26...Page 9A

"We have 43 employees here in Fernley," he said. "At the Granite City plant, there could easily be 100 workers needed." The Fernley Eticam payroll was in the neighborhood of $1.5 million last year, Bradd said. He said the Granite City plant would be larger than the Fernley facility and therefore would employ more people. "What we have here at Fernley is a forerunner of our proposed Granite City operation,"

Bradd said.

Granite City's Economic Development Director Alan Orbals said he sees a plant in Granite City as "a possible magnet to draw in other businesses around the local area."

Orbals and other officials from Granite City returned last week from a tour of Eticam's Fernley plant. "We've always felt the most important part is that this industry can be a catalyst for other economic development," Orbals said. "If Eticam could be in Granite

City, it would be another reason for the type of industry they serve to move to Granite City, so they could be closer to the Eticam plant.

"Not many companies can put this (type of treatment) facility into their (own) operations. They would have significant savings if they would have a plant like this right next to them."

In a recession, Orbals said, he feels that the jobs associated with this possible influx of new business could help help raise Granite City to new economic heights.

Cruse Orbals
Granite City Mayor Von Dee Cruse also said he believes an Eticam plant could be a boon to the local economy. (See ETICAM, Page 9A)

Jennison-Wright to be contained

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

Containment work is expected to begin Monday at the former Jennison-Wright wood treating plant in Granite City, bringing temporary safety to potential trespassers on the site, Illinois Environmental Protection Agency officials said.

Asbestos and creosote sludge will be sealed in 55-gallon drums and contained on site by IEPA contractor Riedel Environmental Services Inc. of Chesterfield, Mo. The work will cost approximately $55,000 and take two to three weeks, officials said.

"The drums will be placed in a warehouse on site, said Virginia Wood of IEPA. The warehouse will be locked and a gate will be placed around it securing the building."

The 26-acre Jennison-Wright site, at 22nd and Missouri streets in Granite City, is a former wood-treating facility where creosote and other products used in wood treatment have contaminated the groundwater and the soil. The company filed for bankruptcy in November, 1989, and a seal order was placed on-site in November of 1990.

The creosote sludge will be gathered from three tanks and the asbestos from discarded and deteriorated pipes at the plant, Wood said. Both are suspected to be cancer-causing agents.

"This is very minor work," Wood said. The earliest possible date for full clean-up of the site would be the latter months of 1994, Wood said.

Clean-up operations would cost $10 million to $30 million.

Statewide health care plan supported

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

Universal health-care advocates gained additional support here Monday from retired steelworkers.

Proponents called for a single, publicly financed statewide insurance program similar to Canadian health care. Elimination of private health insurance companies as the "middle man" in the current system could save $66 million each year, said Jim Carroll, a spokesman for the Campaign for Better Health Care.

Carroll addressed SOAR, the Steelworkers Organization of Active Retirees, at a regular meeting in the Steelworkers

"People that have insurance had better get off their fannies and do something."

SOAR vice president

Local 67 Hall on East 25th Street. The members loudly applauded him and made a $50 donation to the campaign.

"We can't sit on our hands anymore, saying, 'I'm retired and the union will pay for our insurance,'" SOAR vice president Jack Greer said. "People that have insurance had better get off their fannies and do something."

The speaker urged a tax-supported, government-run health system similar to that in Canada. There, he said, everyone has the same access to health care and a choice of doctors without having to pay deductibles, insurance premiums or cash payments.

He said the money would come mainly from federal and state taxes already spent on Medicare and from the replacement of employers' health benefit premiums with a less-expensive payroll tax.

Carroll told the retired steelworkers that 80 percent of union (See HEALTH, Page 3A)

Journals sponsoring 'Get Smart, Stay Sober'

The Suburban Journals are co-sponsoring two "Get Smart, Stay Sober" programs aimed at helping teenagers enjoy alcohol- and drug-free activities around school graduation time.

The two programs, administered by TREND, a movement created by teens to promote alcohol/drug-free lifestyles, are:

- Contests to pick the best student-produced public service announcements for TV, radio and print; and to write the best essay on the campaign theme of "stay in school and stay off alcohol and other drugs."

- A special day June 5 at Six Flags Over Mid-America, when youth from the metro St. Louis area are invited to a special program featuring two concerts by Marky Mark and the Funky Bunch as well as the regular Six Flags attractions. Contest winners will be announced that day.

The two programs are co-sponsored by TREND, the Journals, Six Flags and KPLR-TV (Channel 11) and Q106.5 Radio. McDonald's will participate by distributing discount coupons for the Six Flags day celebration. Contest prizes include a $1,000 scholarship, a VCR, a selection of CDs, a free day at Six Flags, TREND merchandise and cash prizes.

To enter

For contest guidelines and an official "Get Smart, Stay Sober" contest entry form, contact TREND headquarters by mail or phone. The address and phone number are: TREND, 8790 Manchester Road, St. Louis, Mo. 63144, or call 314-922-5124.

Deadline for PSA and essay entries is 4 p.m. May 4. In the PSA contests, TREND chapters will enter youth-produced videos up to 2½ minutes in length, radio tapes up to 45 seconds or quarter-page print advertisements. Essay entries can be up to 750 words. The PSA competition is open only to TREND chapters but the essay contest is open to any student in grades 6 through 12.

Does our baseball still reflect nation's values?

Baseball philosopher-nerds are fond of quoting the French philosopher Jacques Barzun, who reported to his countrymen in 1954 that, "Whoever wants to know the heart and mind of America had better learn baseball."

The philosopher-nerds argue that baseball is the quintessential American sport because it embodies quintessential American values. It is pastoral. It is cerebral. It celebrates the triumph of the individual operating within the team system.

Well, at least those were the values in 1954 when Barzun dropped by. Judging from the first week of the 1992 baseball season, things have changed a little. Baseball still embodies values that Americans love. The trouble is, the values have changed.

Baseball '92 has looked like "Terminator 2." It's been all about sex, violence and the pursuit of money. Bones are cracking. Ligaments are tearing. Elbows are blown out. They're holding press conferences about sexual assault. Everybody wants to talk about money.

Before the Cardinals embarked on their current road trip, they opened the season at home with four games against the New York Mets. They should have posted one of those warnings like you see on TV:

"The following baseball games contain graphic depictions of violence and adult themes that may not be suitable for children."

See Jose Oquendo scream in pain as his shoulder is dislocated!

See a baseball shatter a bone in Andres Galarrraga's wrist!

See Bryn Smith's elbow come apart at the seams!

And, if your stomach can stand it, watch the ugliest, most violent scene of all: See Juan Agosto pitch!

Ah, the poor Cardinals. I was going to pick them to win the National League East. Really. That was the plan for this week's column — dump on the Mets, poo-poo the Pirates, make fun of the Cubs, expose Montreal and flog the Phillies.

Who knew they were going to look like a M*A*S*H ward a week into the season?

By the time I got to the ball yard, things were already so bad that manager Joe Torre had put the unfortunate Juan "Dis" Agosto into a scoreless game the third inning.

Talk about unsuitable for children. His pitching line that day was 2½ innings pitched, 10 hits, seven runs — all earned — one walk and no strikeouts. My new prediction is this: No team with Dis Agosto on it can possibly win a division.

To cheer myself up, I dropped by the press conference the Mets held after that game to celebrate the fact that sexual assault charges would not be brought against three of their players. I felt like calling France, "Yo, Jacques. You still want to know the heart and mind of America? Check this out."

What a bizarre scene. The corridor outside the Mets locker room was full of cops and security guards. Reporters' credentials were checked three times before they were admitted to the press conference. The finest flower of the New York tabloid press was on hand, along with eight television cameras, numerous public relations men, and lawyers and three baseball players wearing relieved expressions.

I've attended many weird events at Busch. The day the Grid-birds left town. The day the Cardinals called a press conference to announce they hadn't signed a free agent. The day the team doctor announced the fastest man in baseball had been run over by a tarp. But this was the weirdest one of all.

I stood in the back, not having the nerve to scream the only question I wanted answered, "Excuse me, but does this have anything to do with baseball?"

No. And yes. If the three guys with relieved expressions hadn't been ball players in the big money, big media '90s, nobody — and this is unfortunate — would have cared that a woman had accused them of sexual assault. Or maybe the woman wouldn't have gone out with them in the first place. But because it was about sex, violence and money, we all cared.

Ah, the magic of baseball. You know what's great about this game?

How it survives, despite itself.

Bill would ban liquor sales from 2-7 a.m.

The 1992 spring session of the 87th General Assembly, which will focus on the state budget, is under way.

Lawmakers introduced 150 Senate bills and 241 House bills, including measures to regulate liquor sales at drinking establishments, and to protect senior citizens from high-pressure solicitation, according to state Sen. Frank Watson, R-Greenville.

Watson said Senate Bill 1614 would prohibit the sale of liquor at bars and drinking establishments between 2 a.m. and 7 a.m. The measure addresses problems associated with late-night drinking, such as loud noise and unruly behavior of intoxicated patrons leaving establishments and disturbing neighborhoods. The bill is also aimed at curbing drunk-driving accidents.

Senate Bill 1613 would prohibit employees of a bar from consuming liquor while on the job. The bill would affect bartenders, waiters and waitresses at establishments that serve alcohol. Violators would face a Class B misdemeanor and up to a $500 fine.

The Solicitation of Elderly Persons Act (Senate Bill 1592) would protect senior citizens from high-pressure solicitation. The act would allow an elderly person to rescind a contribution within one year and to sue for damages.

Other legislation introduced includes:

Criminal Stalking (Senate Bill 1555) — Creates the offense of "stalking," which is the malicious following and harassment of another person.

School Mandates (Senate Bill 1537) — Allows school boards to discontinue programs that are not funded by the state.

Public Assistance — Additional Children (Senate Bill 1540) — Removes the financial incentive for women on Public Assistance to have more children.

McDonnell delays decision on jet plant

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

News on whether St. Clair County will be picked for the new McDonnell Douglas MD-12X jet assembly plant has been postponed again.

Officials from McDonnell Douglas' affiliate Douglas Aircraft Co. in Long Beach, Calif., still are evaluating all nine communities that expressed interest in the plant, said company spokesman John Thom, but other factors are holding up the show.

"We anticipate an announcement later this year, but we can't give a concrete date," he said.

John Baricevic, St. Clair County Board chairman, said the delay is tied to the company's request to get Taiwanese investors involved in the project.

The decision is not up to McDonnell Douglas or its affiliate, but the U.S. government, he said.

"It could be nine months or it could be tomorrow," Baricevic said. "We just don't know."

However, he said, he doesn't mind the delay because it could help the county's bargaining position in the long run.

"The delay helps us because we're the only green site. Everything else (other cities) have the pavement down."

The pavement refers to runway space for the planes. St. Clair County is proposing locating the plant adjacent to the proposed Scott Joint Use facility, but the work has not begun on that project.

"They don't want to build a plane and not have it take off," Baricevic said. "So the delay isn't bothering us at all."

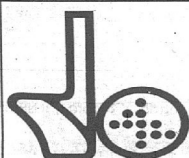

He said he expects the company to announce which site it has picked about three months after the U.S. government decides on the foreign investment proposal.

Thom said he does not know if the company will develop a "short list" of finalists before making a final decision.

"We don't know how that process will unfold," he said.

The company announced in early 1991 that it wanted to build a new $800 million facility. It is expected to bring 8,000 to 9,000 jobs and even more in spinoff job opportunities.

Other sites being considered are Kansas City, Mo.; Salt Lake City; Shreveport, La.; Tulsa, Okla.; Mobile, Ala.; Mesa, Ariz.; and Houston and Fort Worth, Texas.

strikes focus on health-care benefits, reflecting growing problems caused by rising medical and insurance costs.

"When workers lose their jobs or their companies close down, they lose their health care as well," Carroll said.

"We are the only (industrialized) country that does not have a health-care plan."

"People will not go to their doctor for minor problems now because of large deductibles."

"These minor problems are turning into major problems that citizens cannot afford. It's a never-ending situation, and we're all suffering from it. We need more than a Band-aid remedy."

"Universal health care has to come from you and me, from the grassroots. That's how it has to work. We have to work and support organizations that are working for it."

Carroll said more than 200 local and statewide organizations are pushing for adoption of a universal plan in Illinois.

He said such a plan could extend needed coverage to about 1.8 million residents who currently have no way to pay their medical and hospital bills.

THE VOICE BOX: What machine do you think you could not live without?

Charles Roberts, Granite City
"My refrigerator; I need it for everything I eat."

Geneva Brooks, Granite City
"My sewing machine; I use it almost everyday. I've got two of them. I could get the bus to come pick me up if I didn't have a car, but they wouldn't do my sewing for me."

Ron Lowry, Collinsville
"A car because it is really not cool to not have a car. And walking? I hate to walk."

Dodie Jones, Cahokia
"I'd like to think I could live without machines if I had to. We're supposed to be the intelligent species."

Chris Billhartz, New Baden
"It would be my washing machine. I have two kids, and I have to use it often."

Steve Wise, Belleville
"My car. It gets me to work, takes the kids to day care. I drive it to get groceries."

Annual Crop Walk will aid hungry

The sixth annual Church World Service "Crop Walk" will be held April 26 in Granite City. All churches in Granite City, Mitchell, Madison, Venice, Long Lake, Pontoon Beach and other interested communities around Granite City are invited to have representatives in this year's walk.

The goal of the Church World Service 1992 crop walk is to raise $10,000 to help feed hungry people at home and around the world.

Church leaders interested in participating may call the Rev. John Walter or the Rev. Ralph Totten at 877-4555.

A quarter of all funds raised will go to sponsor the Protestant Welfare and Catholic Charities organizations' food supplies for hungry people in the Quad City area.

Those interested in participating should call his/her pastor or 877-4555.

JOHN 3:2 "...FOR NO MAN CAN DO THESE MIRACLES EXCEPT GOD BE WITH HIM."

There is one thing certain in the bible, and that is, Jesus was a miracle worker. The scripture tells us that "Jesus Christ is the same, yesterday, today and forever." (Heb. 13:8). If this is a true statement, then we can expect miracles today. By the way, the bible doesn't work for us unless we BELIEVE it. Why not believe the bible if we need a miracle? It is not necessary to understand it or explain it, believing is sufficient. The difference today is, that, it will likely be a Christian who prays for you to receive a miracle. And they (miracles) will come to you because as God was with Christ, so is he with us today. Read about the bible miracles of healing and start believing that God has one for you! You have nothing to lose but your affliction.

Have a real good Spirit filled day.

Eticam hearing next month

In response to local concerns about the proposed Eticam plant on Illinois 3, a public hearing has been scheduled at 7 p.m. May 26 at the Granite City High School Auditorium.

The hearing, held by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, will allow the public to voice concerns about granting Eticam a hazardous waste management permit. Mara McGinnis, the public participation coordinator for the IEPA, said the IEPA decision, however, must be based "solely on the technical merits of the permit application."

According to McGinnis, the IEPA requires the facility to operate in a manner "which minimizes the dangers to the environment and health of the surrounding community."

This does not mean there are no risks or hazards involved with the operation of this plant. It means that dangers involved in the operation of the type of facility have been evaluated, safety features have been incorporated into the plant's proposal, and plans have been developed to deal with emergency situations which may arise during the operation of this facility. "Among the things that the IEPA said can influence the permit decision include contingency plans for emergencies, scheduling of truckloads of wastes, monitoring and inspection requirements and design features and engineering concerns."

Things the IEPA said will not influence the permit decision include the site location, off-site traffic patterns, local zoning ordinances and personal attacks on the character of the permit applicant, elected officials, IEPA personnel or other citizens.

"Your purpose for making oral comments at a public hearing is to convince the agency to take a particular course of action," McGinnis said. "A public hearing is not an election — 643 people making the same comment does not make the comment 643 times more important."

Written comments can be accepted prior to the hearing, at the hearing and for 30 days following the hearing, McGinnis said. Comments may be mailed to McGinnis, 2200 Churchill Road, Box 19276, Springfield, Ill., 62794-9276.

Eticam

they're talking about a multi-million-dollar construction project," Cruse said.

"Local people would build it. Their taxes (at Fernley) are about $48,000 a year. These are pluses for our community."

Eticam has come under fire about its tax payment record in Nevada. Austin Donnelly, vice president of Eticam's business operations, said the disagreement over payments was due, in part, to pending litigation against the founders of the company.

Donnelly said property taxes have been partially paid and that a disputed equipment tax is what Eticam is delinquent in paying.

"The problem was that the company was involved in litigation against the founder (Hans Arsovic). He valued some equipment wrongly. We're close to getting that resolved. (The taxes) will be paid," Donnelly said. "Arsovic, of West Germany, was charged by Eticam with embezzling funds and Donnelly said the company is still trying to sort out a number of legal stipulations."

Donnelly said that, although the Arsovic scandal marks the past of Eticam, the incident won't harm the future of the company.

"They're long gone," he said. "What they did in the past doesn't concern me. We've invested over $50 million since we started here (in Fernley). We'll go on."

Donnelly said he is ready to go ahead with a long-term project in Granite City and that he hopes it will do more than just provide local businesses with a place to have their waste treated.

"I resent the fact that we're being treated as less-than-good industry when no one else would do what we're doing," Donnelly said.

"I hope the children (in Granite City) can use our labs to do their science projects. This is more than a treatment plant. Industries must prove they can work with the community."

Brian Henry, a freelance writer for the Journal, also went on the Eticam tour. Eticam paid the expenses of the trip for Henry and the Granite City group.

Overweight Problem May Have Solution

KANSAS CITY — Overweight people may have help in their effort to lose weight. A noted clinical nutritionist has created a chewable tablet, appropriately named Food Plus+, made from a natural food that may assist in weight loss without dieting. In one study, a group of overweight people were given this ingredient of Food Plus+ and were told not to change their regular eating habits. The group showed a significant weight loss. Food Plus+ tablets combine this ingredient with natural vitamins and minerals to improve its effectiveness as an aid to weight loss.

...Significant Weight Loss...

One woman states, "Not only have I lost weight with Food Plus+, but I didn't feel hungry, as with some other products I've tried." Another stated, "Food Plus+ tablets are convenient and I was surprised at their good flavors."

Food Plus+ is not a drug, and contains only ingredients that are known to be safe, and is now available from physicians and at participating drug stores.

Metro east baseball players helping SIUE, SLU

By Art Voellinger
Correspondent

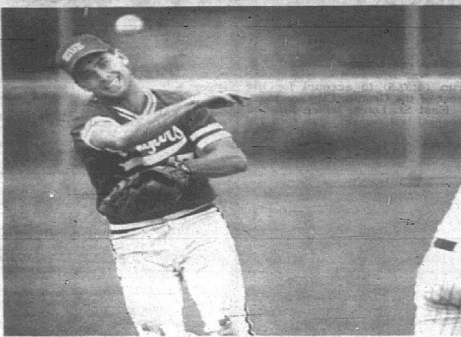

Much ado has been made this spring about the fact that St. Louis University baseball coach Bob Hughes is using several Illinois high school baseball products to turn that program around.

Above the .500 mark for the first time in several seasons, the Bills and their coach deserve credit, but they are not alone when it comes to respecting graduates of Southwestern Illinois area prep programs.

Specifically, Gary "Bo" Collins at SIUE has his Cougars at 15-11-1 after rallying for a pair of one-run victories in a sweep of Quincy on Sunday. According to Collins tradition, SIUE is built by players from the immediate area.

One season after the Cougars posted a 43-17 record and earned a berth in the NCAA Division II World Series, it was far to assume the loss of the likes of catcher Tim Degener, the team's hitting leader and second team All-American, would hurt SIUE.

To an extent that's true, but Collins and the Cougars were true to form when they stretched their winning streak to seven in defeating Quincy 5-4 and 3-2. Now in his 14th season at SIUE, Collins had raised his record to 43-29-3 (.620), entering a week that has the Cougars playing SIU-Carbondale at Busch Stadium on Thursday and McKendree at home on Easter Sunday. By coincidence, St. Louis is scheduled to visit the Cougars at 3 p.m. April 22 in a clash that is bound to draw a crowd even if it's only the friends and relatives of the players. A glance at the SIUE roster shows 15 players from Illinois, including three players — the Hogan twins (Jamie and Tim) and John Moad — from Granite City. The Cougars also have David Jones and Mark Ringering from Edwardsville, Matt Kind and Tony Stoecklin from Wood River, Kurt Hill from Belleville, Jay Cryder from Highland, Ed Wayne from East St. Louis, Scott Rensing from Trenton and Chris Jones from Jerseyville.

Granite City's Jamie Hogan provides the SIUE baseball team with sparkling defense at the all-important short-stop position. Hogan, his twin brother Tim and John Moad are all key seniors for the Cougars, now on a seven-game winning streak.

Unlike the Cougar soccer program, which understandably has drawn from the St. Louis prep hotbed of talent in that sport, SIUE baseball includes just three St. Louisans — freshmen pitchers Doug Fox and Brian Gortman, and center fielder Todd Carter.

Tim Hogan started the year needing 36 walks, 51 runs and 14 stolen bases to set school records in the three categories most associated with an effective leadoff batter. With a massive year (33 doubles), Moad could set the school mark in that category despite only a two-year career. At any rate, he could catch everyone except Bill Luther (56). Moad had 24 two-baggers in 1991.

Carter entered the season needing 56 hits and 66 RBIs to reach school records in each of those categories. As you might suspect, the record holder for each is Luther (236 hits and 167 RBIs from 1987-90).

FOOTNOTE: This corner was remiss in not paying tribute sooner to Bill Ohlendorf, who recently resigned as basketball coach at Granite City High.

Ohlendorf, 52, said the seasons were wearing on him physically and mentally, but I doubt he'll lose his wit — something I've encountered during his time as a coach in a career that began at Venice in 1961.

After victory at Belleville West last season, I asked Ohlendorf why his defense wasn't tighter on Maroon guard Sean Keefe, who had hit several 3-pointers.

"We normally don't guard anyone that close," said Bill with reference to a play when Keefe netted a shot and nearly fell into the West sideline stands.

Somewhere a golf course awaits Ohlendorf. While playing he can recall a 20-8 record, including a victory over Collinsville to end the Hawks' 34-game conference winning streak, should the tee-to-green time become hazardous.

Clark stations offer coupons for Tri-City

The 1992 Tri-City Speedway season opens April 25, and the St. Louis district of Clark Oil will be offering two-for-one ticket coupons at more than 65 Clark stations in the greater St. Louis area.

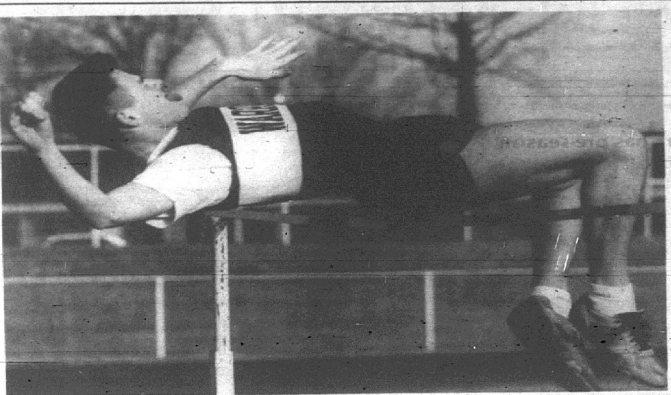

The weekly Saturday night card features the Clark Oil late model series.

Tickets are $8.50 for adults, $30 for children ages 6-12 and free for children under 6. A family ticket of $19 will admit two adults and two children.

Correction

In the outline for the photo which appeared in last Wednesday's Journal of the Granite City Wrestling Club members who competed in the state tournament, Richie Carney, Ethan Crane, Jason Wilson and Justin Beam attend Coolidge Junior High School, not Grigsby. Also, the tournament was held in Springfield, Rick Jones is the other coach at Coolidge.

The Press-Record/Journal regrets the error.

"I thought Tiffany had an easy triple and I waved her on," said Hutchings. "I can't fault her for being aggressive."

Edwardsville (4-3) got two runs in the third as Tonia Jennings tripped over the head of center fielder Wendy Chamberlain. Mary Ward grounded back to Puhse, but Sykes couldn't find the handle on the throw and runners were at first and third. Ward stole second and Nikki Turner grounded to second for an RBI. Kim Jackson's infield out scored the second run.

The Tigers added single runs in the fourth and fifth with the help of Granite City errors. Jennings had a sacrifice fly in the fourth after the Lady Warriors botched a double play. Turner scored on a two-out throwing error by Winters in the fifth. Meanwhile, Granite City had runners in every inning but the seventh. With two on and one

Easter meal made perfect with cheesecake

By Janice Denham
Staff writer

It is easy to smile when you say cheese(cake). Cheesecake lovers may disagree on whether there should be Easter bunnies this year, but they concur that this concoction of richness should have a stable bottom and a creamy center of some type of flavorful cheese.

There are many versions of cheesecake as there are cheeses to put in it. Each of these Easter party cakes is velvety smooth, made with sweetened condensed milk (not evaporated milk) which already has whole milk and sugar in it, and pecans which add color and crunch.

It is hard to fail when making cheesecake, but some tips may help it become the star of the day's dinner parade.

- Do not overbeat or oversoften cream cheese, so extra ingredients — like chips, candy and pecans — stay evenly distributed.
- Do not overbeat the batter after filling ingredients have been mixed.
- Follow recipe directions and do not overbake, or the cake might crack.

• A springform pan with a removable bottom makes a picture-perfect cake. Run a knife tip around the outer edge of pan so the cake can pull away freely as it cools and contracts.

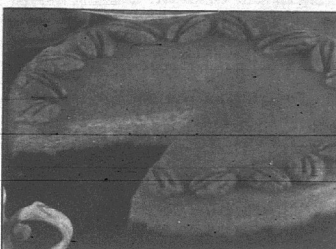

• Cool cheesecake thoroughly to room temperature before chilling.

• To remove the pan side from a thoroughly chilled cheesecake, gently loosen it with the tip of a knife or a narrow spatula, while slowly releasing the clamp. Remove the side carefully.

• Cheesecake can be made and frozen in advance. Freeze the cake unadorned and wrap tightly. Pecans can be pre-measured and stored in freezer for sauce or garnish. Thoroughly thaw cheesecake in refrigerator before topping or serving.

"The Great American Cookbook Featuring Pecans" is available for $6.95 plus $2 shipping from: National Pecan Marketing Council, 4348 Carter Creek, Suite 101, Bryan, Texas 77802.

Pecan Caramel Cheesecake

- 1/4 cup graham cracker crumbs
- 1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1/4 cup margarine or butter, melted
- 1 pkg. (14 oz.) caramels

High blood pressure aided by less sodium

By Patricia Abels
Registered Dietitian
American Heart Association
St. Louis Chapter

Having high blood pressure is no fun. People who are more likely to get heart disease, stroke and kidney disease than those with normal pressure. The problem is very real and very big: About 63 million Americans have high blood pressure.

Many more have borderline high levels. These are at the high end of the normal range. Because borderline high blood pressure often develops into definite hypertension if left untreated, what can people do to lower blood pressure headed in the wrong direction?

One answer sounds simple. Lose a little weight and eat a little less sodium.

I Love Eating

The answer came in a recently published study, Trials of Hypertension Prevention. Researchers found that people with borderline high blood pressure who lost as little as eight pounds and took in only 1,600 milligrams sodium per day significantly lowered their blood pressure levels.

"Weight loss and sodium reduction appear to be the two best ways to lower blood pressure, whether it's already high or just headed that way," says

Dr. Jerome Cohen, principal investigator of the study. Cohen is a cardiologist at St. Louis University Hospital and Clinics.

"Of course, sometimes medications are the only way to lower blood pressure that's already high. But people with high normal pressures usually don't need medications; often it only takes relatively small lifestyle changes to keep the problem from getting out of control."

Dr. Cohen advises doing what the study participants did.

"Get out and walk at a brisk pace four to five times per week to help burn off extra calories. Learn to enjoy lower-fat foods that are also naturally low in sodium, like vegetables, fruits, beans, pasta and potatoes."

Avoid heavily processed foods—they're chock full of sodium—and go, easy on the salt shaker. This is one delicious way to skip the salt shaker. In Rice and Vegetable Pilaf, low-sodium chicken broth, vegetables and freshly ground pepper supply tasty support for likable rice.

Rice and vegetable pilaf

1 cup low-sodium chicken broth
1 cup uncooked, long grain rice
1 cup chopped fresh mushrooms
1 cup shredded carrot
1 cup chopped fresh parsley sprigs
1 cup sliced green onion, with tops
1 tsp. freshly ground pepper

In medium saucepan over high heat, bring chicken broth to boil. Add rice. Reduce heat. Simmer, covered, 20 minutes. Remove from heat. Let stand 5 minutes. Stir in mushrooms, carrot, parsley, onion and pepper. Return to low heat. Cook another 5 minutes.

Fluff with fork. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings; 70 calories, no fat or cholesterol and 21 mg sodium each.

Recipe adapted from American Heart Association "Low-Salt Cookbook" by Dr. Rodman Starke and registered dietitian Mary Winston.

The next "I Love Eating" class will be held from 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Wednesday, April 29, at the Missouri Botanical Garden, 4344 Shaw Blvd., St. Louis. Admission to the garden that morning and to the class is free, but registration is required. Call 45-HEART or toll-free (800) 255-9819 from outside St. Louis.

Microwave useful tool for brunch on Easter

By Sandra Houson
Home economist

Green grass grows. Flowers bloom. A hat brims with flowers. These are the signs of spring. Other signs of spring blossom, too: Those are Easter baskets, welcoming brunches and fresh asparagus.

A microwave oven is a useful appliance to prepare many of these goodies. However, one time it should not be used is to cook eggs in the shell for decorating. When microwaved, pressure builds up in the shell and they explode.

On the other hand, scrambling eggs for a brunch can be handled successfully in a microwave. In a glass pie pan or shallow baking dish, heat 2 tablespoons butter or margarine on high power 30 to 45 seconds until melted. Meanwhile, in a mixing bowl, beat 4 eggs with 3 to 4 tablespoons milk, blending thoroughly.

Tip the pan to let butter evenly coat the bottom and side. Pour in the egg mixture. Microwave on high power 4 minutes, stirring after each minute. Let stand 2 minutes before serving. Asparagus, at its peak this time of year, makes a great brunch accompaniment. Tiny, tender spears have the most flavor. One pound serves 4 to 6 people. Holding each end of the spear, gently bend it to break off the tough, woody stem end. Wash gently to avoid breaking the tender tips.

Place cleaned spears in a shallow baking dish with tips toward the center of the pan. Melt 1/4 cup butter or margarine in a glass measuring cup on high power 25 to 30 seconds. Stir in 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Pour over spears. Cover dish with plastic wrap. Microwave on high power 7 to 9 minutes.

Over the Waves

When the bunny fills the baskets, these nest treats, filled with jelly beans, can be tucked inside.

Jelly bird nests

1/4 cup margarine or butter
1 pkg. (10 oz.) regular (about 40) or 4 cups miniature marshmallows
3 biscuits (1 inner package) large shredded wheat

Microwave margarine and marshmallows on high power 2 minutes in microwave-safe mixing bowl. Stir to combine. Microwave on high 1 minute more. Stir until smooth.

Crush biscuits in package before opening. Pour into margarine mixture. Stir until well blended. Spraying hand or spoon with nonstick cooking spray makes mixing the sticky mixture easier.

Allow to cool a few minutes until mixture can be handled with hands. Pull off about 2 tablespoons mixture. Shape like a nest. Place on buttered waxed paper. Chill in refrigerator until set.

Fill with jelly beans, wrap in plastic wrap and tie with a bow. Makes 6 to 8, depending on size of nest.

Those going on the Journals' Grand Fall Tour will see quiet places where nature displays a patchwork of color.

9th day of Grand Fall Tour features Quebec

Day Nine of the Journals' Grand Fall Tour members will visit the Laurentian Mountains, the outdoor playground of the province of Quebec.

Serene backroads that follow gently rolling hills past ancestral manors and mill ponds, lunch at Ste. Agatha and a cruise on Lac des Sablons highlight the day's sightseeing.

The day ends in Montreal, Canada's most cosmopolitan city with old world charm and new world hustle.

The city is alive with jazz, film and comedy festivals and features a vast network of underground shopping concourses.

Another must is a visit to Old Montreal, where the city was born 350 years ago.

Journal Tour members spend two nights in Montreal, including one evening dinner atop the Chateau Champlain Hotel, which offers a superb view of the city and a fine opportunity to enjoy companionship of fellow tour members.

The Journals' Grand New England Fall Foliage Tours spend 12 days visiting Eastern Canada and New England just when the fall colors are at their peak. Operated and arranged by Tauck Tours and Tenholder Travel, the tour is offered in two small group departures, Sept. 21 and Oct. 2.

For information and reservations contact the Tour Coordinator at Tenholder Travel at 800-333-5910 in St. Louis. The Journals will offer the Grand Alaska and Grand Hawaii Tours again in 1993.

Time to prune fruit trees, roses

The beautiful flowering fruit trees are a welcome aspect of spring. It's time to take care of your fruit trees so you'll have beautiful springs for years to come.

Prune peaches and nectarines now. Leaf rollers and tent caterpillars will soon be active on apple trees, so you should control as needed. Stink bugs and tarnished planthoppers become active on peaches. When controlling these and other pests, be sure to protect bees and other pollinating insects. Do not spray insecticides on fruit trees that are blooming.

Roses can be tended to now. Carefully remove winter mulches from roses and complete pruning promptly. Remove only dead wood from climbers at this time. Cultivate lightly, working in some compost or other organic matter. Fertilize established roses once new growth is 2 inches long, using a balanced formulation. You can be working in other parts of your garden as well. When transplanting vegetables and annuals, break off rims from peat pots, otherwise they act as a wick to draw moisture away from the roots. It's important not to over or underwater your garden. To figure out when to water, mount a rain gauge on a post near the garden to keep track of precipitation. Most gardens need about 1 inch of rain per week between April and September.

Take a break from your gardening and enjoy the lovely plant life growing in the wild throughout the area. Enjoy, but do not disturb, the many wild flowers blooming in woodlands all over Missouri.

The Missouri Botanical Garden's Kemper Center for Home Gardening is open daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Each month there is a new and beautiful gardening display to give you ideas and inspiration. Visit the Plant Doctor, see new tools and techniques for growing plants at home and learn more from our extensive gardening library. Meet with the Master Gardeners to chat about your gardening questions.

Trees save energy, lower utility bills

An often overlooked method of lowering your house's energy use is increasing the number of trees on your property. Planting the right tree in the right location can help lower your heating and cooling costs. And because you are using energy efficiently, you are also helping to protect the environment, according to the Edison Electric Institute and the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, two national associations of electric utilities.

Deciduous and evergreen trees work together to block the hot summer sun and cold winter winds. The right combination of these trees can also protect your home from noise and dust too.

Deciduous trees have broad leaves and include oak, maple, and elm trees. These trees should be planted on the south and west sides of your home, the areas where the sun's rays reach your house. In the summer, the deciduous trees will help block the hot summer sun. This in turn will lower your air conditioning costs.

In the winter, the same deciduous trees have now lost all their leaves, and allow the sun's warmth to reach your house. This helps to lower your heating bills.

Evergreen trees should be planted on the north and west side of your house. Here, these trees with their branches of thick green needles, can then block the cold winter winds.

Low trees and shrubs planted close to your house, block wind currents and create a "dead air" space that helps to reduce heat loss in the winter. It also helps to buffer your home from hot outside air in the summer.

When planting trees, remember to watch out for overhead power lines. Trees with a low mature height, less than 25 feet, are recommended for planting under power lines. Be sure to check with your electric utility's forestry department, or your local nursery to help you decide which tree is best.

For more information on planting trees on your property, or in your neighborhood, write to the American Forestry Association, P.O. Box 2000, Washington D.C. 20013 or call (202) 667-3300.

Yard care products can be made better

Most homeowners want the same thing in a yard care product: one that is quick, easy and effective. Today's consumers also want one with favorable environmental characteristics. That's why grass and weed killers even destroy plant roots under bricks or pavement. It works by blocking a protein found only in plants, but won't move in the soil or leach to affect nearby vegetation or the roots of desirable plants. It also breaks down into naturally occurring substances like water, nitrogen and carbon dioxide.

But even great products can be enhanced. A weed killer for homeowners in a dry tablet form represents the latest advance in products to help with conscientious yard care. The easy handling tablet will not leak, freeze or spill. When dissolved in 24 ounces of clean water, the tablet effervesces into a ready-to-use spray weed killer.

Its reduced outer packaging is made from 60 to 80 percent post-consumer waste and produces less trash to throw away. It is great for spot treating weeds, lawn renovation and even garden site preparation. For information call 1-800-225-2963.

Some houseplants can be poisonous to children

By Barbara Perry Lawton
Correspondent

According to horticultural coordinator Randy Wichman of the Kemper Center for Home Gardening at the Missouri Botanical Garden, the following questions were most commonly asked by gardeners at the Plant Doctor's desk recently.

Question: Can you tell me which house plants are poisonous? I have young children and pets and am concerned.

Answer: The most common poisonous household plants probably are the arums or aroids, all relatives of common philodendron.

The watery or milky sap is often poisonous because it contains oxalic acid, a substance which forms calcium oxalate crystals. If eaten, it will irritate and cause severe swelling of the mouth and throat.

This group includes philodendrons, dieffenbachia, anthurium, spathiphyllum and caladium. Jerusalem cherry, a member of the nightshade family, is another common house plant that is poisonous. Its bright orange berries look very appealing, much like its edible cousin, the tomato. There are other poisonous house plants, but the key thing to

A simple new way to feed houseplants

With most houseplants going into their active growing and blooming season, now's the time to think about applying a good houseplant fertilizer. Trouble is, spring and summer may be your most active times, too. Plant food spikes, may be the answer. Inserted into the soil of a potted plant, they release nutrients slowly, as the plants need them.

Plant Food Spikes contain Nutralene, a new, slow release nitrogen.

The Plant Doctor

A service at the Missouri Botanical Garden

remember is that you should train children and pets not to browse on plants.

Q. If I cut my grass with a mulching mower, will that eventually cause thatch build-up in my lawn?

A. No. The mulching mower will throw finely cut grass clippings back into the turf, returning much of the nitrogen and other nutrients to the lawn. You will need far less fertilizer if you use a mulching mower.

Q. When is it safe to move my indoor plants outdoors?

A. Memorial Day is the traditional time when it's absolutely safe to move all house plants outdoors. Many, including the ivies, can be moved outside sooner because they are not tropical plants as are many house plants. The average last hard freeze in the St. Louis area is early- to mid-April. Some of the very tender tropicals can be injured by temperatures in the low 40s F. When you move plants outdoors, don't move them from extreme shade to full sun. That can shock the plants as much as low temperatures.

Q. How do I control moles?

A. Since moles eat cutworms and other lawn and garden grubs, some gardeners think you should learn to appreciate them. The tunnels are easy to stamp down so that the mower doesn't scalp the sod. If you must control them, use the recommended chemicals for controlling grubs or buy spring-loaded mole traps that are available in garden centers. Some people recommend putting things in their burrows, but that doesn't stop them from simply making new burrows.

Q. When repotting a plant into a larger pot, how much larger should the new pot be?

A. Choose a new pot just one size larger than the old one. Beware of "overpotting" a plant, as some growers call it. Overpotting can do more harm than is caused by plants being pot-bound. Not only does the plant look lost in an over-sized pot, it also will not be as healthy due to problems often caused by over-watering.

Gardeners can take their plant samples and questions to the Plant Doctors' desk in the Kemper Center at the Missouri Botanical Garden Monday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. For phone answers to your gardening question, call the Horticulture Answering Service at 314/577-5143 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, Monday through Saturday.

SOME STRAIGHT TALK ABOUT MAMMOGRAMS...

We understand why you could be concerned by recent ABC-TV national coverage about sub-standard mammography centers. That's why we want you to be reassured that...

- Memorial's Mammography Center is fully-accredited by the American College of Radiology (ACR) - the "gold standard" for mammography facility accreditation. Only about 30 percent of all mammography centers in the United States have passed the rigorous image quality and interpretation standards required for ACR accreditation.
- Memorial's radiologic technologists are fully-trained, kept up-to-date with the latest techniques through continuing education courses, registered by the American Registry of Radiologic Technologists, and licensed by the Illinois Department of Nuclear Safety.
- All mammograms are locally interpreted by board-certified radiologists who live in the metropolitan area and are members of Memorial's Medical Staff.

For your own peace of mind, call Memorial's Mammography Center at 233-7750, Extension 5065, to find out more about this cost-effective, life-saving exam.

Sharon Stone not bothered by her steamy 'Basic' role

By Frank Hunter
Correspondent

Sharon Stone and Michael Douglas, up to their hips in sex and slaughter in "Basic Instinct," continue titillating the multitudes.

For ex-model-turned-actress Sharon Stone, "Basic Instinct" is neither a crime nor a shame. It's just a movie," Stone insists, gamely adding that shooting the simulated sex scenes with Michael Douglas didn't bother her much.

"Let's be candid — our film isn't great art and doesn't make a big statement," she says. "It's mainly a good thriller with a lot of action."

"There wasn't an intentional effort to offend anybody or any group. Things just seem to have turned out that way. I only hope people will accept the picture for what it is and go see it."

Stone who grew up in Meadville, Pa., and won a local high school beauty contest, "Basic Instinct" has made salty-Sharon Stone a box office pillar in the eyes of canny producers, who now approach her with provocative new film projects in mind.

Until recently, Stone's career had been rather upsy-downsy.

Ardent cop caper fans may recall her being shot dead in bed during the winter of 1988 in the first reel of Carl Weathers' "Action Jackson."

Stone struggled through scores of semi-polite, post-screening interviews four years ago, taking her premature snuffing out in stride with giggles and defiant support of her work. "Well, after all, it's a hell of a lot better than not being in the picture at all," she said.

And when reporters wondered whether more rewarding roles might be heading her way, she ruefully remarked, "Well, I certainly hope so. I'm not getting any younger and I'd like to make it big before my face falls off and my breasts fall down to my knees."

Stone's plucky pragmatism appealed to many and ultimately led her into roles such as the scruffy waitress-turned-petulant movie star in "Irreconcilable Differences."

She also appeared with Richard Chamberlain in "King Solomon's Mines," and the television film dramas "The Vegas Hotel Wars" and "The Calendar Girl Murders."

Rock-A-Doodle story, animation a big failure

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

The most important story element in "Rock-A-Doodle," an animated children's film, seems to be that Elvis is not only still alive, but he's a rooster appearing nightly in Las Vegas.

This picture is the latest effort by Don Bluth, one of the finest animators to ever leave Disney. Some of Bluth's other pictures include "All Dog's Go To Heaven," "The Land Before Time" and "The Secret of NIMH."

"Rock-A-Doodle" conveys its over-anxious story line through the eyes of a little boy named Edmond. The boy's mother reads him a story one night, and then storm whips up and threatens to flood the family's farm.

Following the course of the story his mother was reading, Edmond is turned into a kitten by a villainous owl. Edmond must then set out, with little help from his friends, to find a rooster named Chanticleer who is the only thing alive that can

'Rock-A-Doodle'
1 1/2 stars
Rated: R
Length: 77 min.

save Edmond's family's farm from a watery ruin.

"Rock-A-Doodle" is the most dull, least accomplished animation Bluth has ever put his hand to. The musical score is barnyard loud but little else.

The vocal cast includes Glen Campbell, Christopher Plummer, Phil Harris, Sandy Duncan, Charles Nelson Reilly and Ellen Greene, among others.

Bluth's animated features of the last few years have been deteriorating when it comes to stories. It's sad to say that it now looks like his animation skills are now doing the same, if "Rock-A-Doodle" is any real indicator.

I hope not.

Parton says movies appeal now that she's a star

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

Being a good listener and knowing how to find the humor in almost any situation are two attributes Dolly Parton says she has always possessed. They served her well, Parton says, in her new film "Straight Talk."

Dolly plays a receptionist who inadvertently finds herself the host of a radio talk show in Chicago. The show specializes in giving advice to people with problems, and her character, Shirlee Kenyon, becomes popularly known as "Dr. Shirlee."

"This script came to me quite a few years ago," Parton said, "but I didn't get a chance to do it. Then Bette Midler had it. Then Goldie Hawn was going to do it. Then Julia Roberts had it just before I got it back."

"It's a Cinderella story about a country girl who makes good. We tried to make my character as much like me as possible since the story really was like my own life. I related a lot to the aspects of a country girl going to the big city and being a fish out of water. It was the closest thing to me in real life that I'll ever do."

"If my fans wonder what I'm like in real life, just go see the movie. That's really me up there in more ways than one."

Parton's first film hit came in 1980 when she played a beleaguered secretary in "9 to 5" opposite Lily Tomlin and Jane Fonda. Parton also wrote the title song for that film.

She then teamed with Burt Reynolds for another hit, "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas."

Dolly's movie career met a roadblock, however, with the release a bomb called "Rhinestone" co-starring Sylvester Stallone. Dolly's credentials as an actress bounced back when she was teamed with her friends Sally Field, Shirley MacLaine, Daryl Hannah, Olympia Dukakis and Julia Roberts in "Steel Magnolia."

"You never can tell what they're going to say," Dolly said when asked how she feels about movie critics, who have been less than kind to her. "I try to take into consideration what they're saying to see if I can find something that will help me in my next movie."

"It's more important to me that my fans like my movies than the critics."

Parton says Disney Studios has actively promoted "Straight Talk."

"I'm being given the star treatment by the folks at Disney, and that suits me fine," Parton said. "Ever since I was a little girl, I didn't want to be an actress or singer as much as I wanted to be a star. I wanted to be an entertainer, be on the stage, be in the bright lights, and wear fancy clothes."

"Once I had made it in the music world, I had been offered a lot of movie scripts, but I turned them all down. I felt I had become the star I had always wanted to be and I didn't need to chance the movies."

"But when Jane Fonda called me, and told me she wanted me for '9 to 5' because I could play someone from the South effectively, I changed my mind. I've learned that acting in a movie is not that much different from being up on a stage and being a dramatic singer."

Academy Award-nominee Dolly Parton stars as Shirlee Kenyon, a small-town girl who moves to the big city and becomes a star when she inadvertently lands a job as an on-air talk radio "doctor of the heart" in "Straight Talk."

Pageant entries sought

The pageant will be July 19 in Highland during the county fair. For more information or to register, persons may call Wendy Hartlieb at 654-5089.

Total return investing gives options

The following article is by Christos G. Dousmanis, first vice president, Investments, Paine Webber, Inc., Chicago

There's an old story about a father who gives his two sons each a bag of gold, charging them to safeguard the money while he is away on a long trip. The first son, nervous about this responsibility, buries the gold in the yard, where he feels it will be safe until his father's return.

The second son takes the money, makes some wise investments, and earns even more money for his father.

Are you guilty of investing your retirement savings like the first son? If most of your retirement funds are socked away in Certificates of Deposit, money market funds and other short term instruments, you may well be limiting your potential to earn income for your golden years.

Because of today's low interest rate environment, investing in these low-yielding, short-term vehicles will produce an estimated return of about zero percent, after adjustment for inflation.

You're probably all too aware of the need to supplement your pension and Social Security benefits with personal savings to insure a financially secure retirement. In fact, the Treasury Department estimates that personal savings and investment will have to account for nearly 40 percent of retirement income.

Everywhere you look today, there are dire predictions about Americans' unpreparedness for retirement.

Case in point, a recent Urban Institute Study warns that baby boomers will not only retire later than their parents, but they'll also retire with only about half the real net worth of their parents—$143,000 for boomers versus $283,000 for their parents. If you've taken these startling statistics to heart and have already started a disciplined retirement savings program, you may feel like you're ahead of the game. But the fact is, just saving is not enough; investors must know how to best invest their retirement funds, being very careful not to bury those funds in the proverbial hole in the ground.

The economy of the 1990s is very different than that of the 1980s. Over the past year and a half, the Federal Reserve Board has aggressively cut interest rates to stimulate the economy. That leaves rates today at their lowest levels in decades.

Experts expect the '90s to continue to be characterized by slow growth, low inflation and low-to-lower interest rates. In this environment, investors, particularly those with maturing fixed income investments in their retirement accounts, are becoming all too aware of the "R-Factor" reinvestment risk.

Over the past 20 years, with interest rates continually rising, investors could simply roll their maturing investments into new ones at higher rates. However, the double-digit yields that were available from CDs and money market funds during the '70s and '80s are now down to about four or five percent.

Consider this: In the 1980s you could invest $100,000 in a CD at 10 percent and get a $10,000 annual income. Today, that same $100,000 invested at current four percent CD rates would yield only $4,000 a year. That's a 60 percent drop in income.

Clearly investors need to turn to new strategies to help their retirement investments keep pace. No matter where you are relative to retirement, an effective combination of growth and income will help attain the savings levels needed for a comfortable retirement.

Extending maturities on fixed income investments will help lock in higher rates and protect income, but that strategy alone will not provide high returns that were available in the past.

New student on BAC board

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

Jayne Frey, Belleville Area College's new student trustee, isn't discouraged by the turbulence on the board.

The board majority is currently in litigation with trustee Ted Farmer over a board policy. Frey said she prefers to think of the continuing battles over policy as a learning experience.

"I would rather have the difficult stuff over with at once," she said. "I think I will get more out of the experience than if it were calm and peaceful, though it would be nice if it were peaceful."

Frey, 19, of Belleville replaced Susan Shreve of Waterloo as the student trustee. Frey was sworn in at Wednesday night's board meeting.

Shreve, who normally did not take part in the board's lengthy squabbles, complained that trustee Ted Farmer had unfairly criticized the other board members.

"I have seen first-hand a dedicated board of trustees and administration," Shreve said. "We have an intelligent and independent board of trustees." Frey said it is the student trustee's job to give the board input from the student body but she would like to learn more about the issues facing the college before casting her advisory vote.

Frey recently moved to Belleville from Highland. As a high school senior, she spent a year in the Philippines as part of a student exchange program.

One Price Clothing store opens

The One Price Clothing Store opens Thursday, April 16, in the Nameoki Village Shopping Center.

This new location is the chain's 377th store and the seventh to be opened in Illinois.

"One Price Clothing features first-quality misses' and juniors' fashion apparel and accessories, as well as plus-sizes and children's fashions," said Larry Walker, regional manager.

"Every item is priced at $7 every day."

In addition to the concept of selling first-quality apparel at a single price, the company "puts strong emphasis on providing merchandise at substantial savings with excellent service and clean, pleasant stores to shop in," Walker said.

"One Price Clothing is able to offer first-quality, in-season merchandise by purchasing goods from apparel and accessory manufacturers which have either over-produced goods, received order cancellations, or need to liquidate stock."

The chain, headquartered in Duncan, S.C., has stores throughout the Southeast, plus Ohio, Louisiana, Kentucky and Texas.

The Nameoki Village store will employ eight people and will be open seven days a week.

Metals firm fined $50,000

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

A Collinsville businessman was fined $50,000 on April 9 after a Madison County Circuit Judge ruled that the man had violated a previous court order by illegally using a wire reclamation furnace.

Associate Judge George Filcoff fined David Huff, owner of D&S Metals in Collinsville, in default when neither he nor counsel for him appeared in court.

The business is planning to move to Madison.

According to Filcoff's order, Huff "willfully violated" a court order issued Sept. 13, 1991, by Chief Circuit Judge Paul Riley.

When reached Thursday evening, Huff said he was unaware of Thursday's proceedings. He declined comment until he could further investigate the matter.

The original order prohibited the use of a wire reclamation furnace at the Lebanon Road business until the proper operating permit was obtained from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

The furnace is designed to burn off insulation from copper-bearing wire. The wire can then be sold as scrap.

The original order was sought after neighbors and visitors to nearby Glidden Park complained about the amount of smoke coming from the business.

According to Madison County State's Attorney William Haine, those complaints arose again in late January, leading him to contact IEPA officials.

Four neighbors and a Collinsville police officer were among state witnesses, the order said. According to Jeff Benbenek, an IEPA environmental protection specialist who testified at both last year's and Thursday's hearings, even more complaints of excessive smoke and odor surfaced in mid-March.

Benbenek visited the business, where an employee told him the furnace had been used.

"There were remnants of burning in the furnace, so our position was that they had been operating the unit," Benbenek said.

He said he did not believe it was possible that the burnt remnants were left from December, when the business had conducted legal testing of the furnace.

Benbenek said that Thursday's ruling will likely have some bearing on Huff's operating permit application, which is being reviewed by the IEPA.

That application also includes Huff's intent to relocate his business to Madison, Benbenek said. Haine said the $50,000 fine was the maximum in civil penalties for the alleged violation.

"We asked for it, and we got it," Haine said. "I say hooray for the judge."

Haine said he was particularly pleased that Filcoff further ordered Huff to pay the county $300 for his office's legal services as well as the expense of witnesses' subpoenas.

"This is not Burger King and we aren't going to do it his way," Haine said. "He simply must realize that we are not going away. We'll put him out of business or he'll obey the law."

Filcoff's order calls for another hearing to be set the next available date after 30 days for review and imposition of additional fines if applicable.
